Certain substances used in food and animal feed products need to be authorised before they can be sold. These are known as regulated products.

From 1 January 2021, any regulated products and processes to be sold in England, Wales and Scotland will need to be authorised. This includes any changes to existing authorisations.

Regulated products in Northern Ireland will continue to be controlled and authorised in line with EU law.

The time it takes to complete the authorisation will vary depending on complexity.

All regulated products with an existing authorisation for use from the EU will remain valid in the UK from 1 January 2021.

Applications for regulated product authorisation must be made online at food.gov.uk
